Health/Wellness Considerations:

- Please take the health and well-being of others, particularly those who may have compromised immune systems, into consideration when evaluating your own health prior to a retreat/event at Cross Roads. While we certainly would love to have you here, we do not want others to get sick while attending a retreat.
- When sharing a cabin/sleeping space and meeting rooms with people from other households, it is important to consider multiple factors prior to arriving at Cross Roads. If you have symptoms that indicate you could have a contagious illness (fever, vomiting, diarrhea, congestion, etc.) that could transmit to others, please cancel your reservation for a full refund.
- Cross Roads will issue a full refund for ALL medical related cancellations.
- Anyone who tested positive for COVID-19 up to 5 days prior to the start of the retreat should cancel for a full refund. To come to a Cross Roads retreat after having COVID you must be at least 5 days past the positive test AND at least 24-hours symptom free. Those coming to camp before day 8 post positive test should wear a mask.
- When possible, we recommend participants take a rapid COVID test prior to departing for Cross Roads. For Cross Roads retreats, when possible/able, we will provide rapid tests upon arrival.
- If symptoms develop while at Cross Roads, please refrain from interacting with others, notify the retreat leader, and depart from Cross Roads. A pro-rated refund will be issued.
